Death of Elliott W. Shanklin.

Elliott W. Shanklin, the Secretary of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, died suddenly, at Lexington, Friday.

Mr. Shanklin was in his office at the fair grounds. He had just completed the labors of the day and was contemplating, with the satisfaction that comes of the sense of work well done, the prospects of the association meeting which opens this week with such flattering outlook.

He was one of Lexington's most popular men, and his death will be regretted by a large number of friends all over the country.

Mr. Horace Wilson has been engaged to act temporarily as Secretary of the association.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower, for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Trouble that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermenta tion of food, habitual costiveness, nervons dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact any trouble connected with the somach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries. and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. W. T. Brooks.

G. G. GREEN, Woodbary, N. J. (1jly-04)

Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents.--W. T Brooks. 1jly-04

A Female Bookkeeper Charged With Grand Larceny.

The Complainants Are Officers of the United States Playing Card Co., Cincinnati - Alleged Peculations May Reach $50,000.

New York, Oct. 3.-Marie Layton Johnson, wife of Albert M. Johnson, a dentist of Larchmont, N. Y., was arrested Friday night on a warrant charging her with grand larceny of $2,000. The total amount of her defalcations may, it is said, amount to $50,000

The complainants are officers of the United States Playing Card Co., of Cincinnati. The officers are John Omwake, president; R. H. McCutcheon, secretary and treasurer and manager of the New York branch, and R. J. Morgan, manager of the Cincinnati of-

Mrs. Johnson, whose maiden name was Marie Layton, was bookkeeper for the New York office, and in addition, acted as private secretary to Mr. Mc-Cutcheon. She was married to Dr. Johnson in 1901, but did not leave her position after the marriage. In April of this year discrepancies are said to have been discovered in her accounts, according to the statement given out by Inspector McClusky, and an examination is said to have revealed a shortage of $10,000 between January 1 and April 15, in the accounts of the New York office.

The woman's method is said to have been as follows: The accounts of the concern were kept in the Hanover national bank, there being a New York and Cincinnati account there. Cincinnati would send to New York a bill of goods, which would be sold for $3,000, and that amount would be placed to the credit of the Cincinnati account. But, it is alleged, Mrs. Johnson would charge the New York office with $5,-000, taking the difference herself. To make the accounts balance she would then raise a small bill of goods shipped from Cincinnati from, say $9 to $2,009. Mrs. Johnson was discharged from the employment of the company in April, when, Inspector McClusky says, she admitted defalcations of $10,000. It was thought at that time that her husband, Dr. Johnson, who has a large practice, would make up the loss, but this was not done. Later, further investigation was made into both the New York and Cincinnati accounts. with the result, it is said, that the defalcations now amount to $33,000, with a possibility that they may reach $50,-

Dr. Johnson refused to say anything about the case, nor would any of the officers of the card company talk. It is said that Mrs. Johnson specu-lated in Wall street and lost considerable money there. EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS.

It Will Be Called By President Roosevelt in November.

Washington, Oct. 3 .- A good deal of pressure has been brought to bear on the president to induce him not to call congress into extraordinary session in November; but to all callers who have spoken to him in that vein he has said that this government is committed to the proposition that the Cuban reciprocity treaty be made effective at the earliest possible date and he regards it as a matter of good faith that this country should keep its word. He has declined, therefore, to consider any proposal looking to the abandonment of the idea of an extraordinary ses-

Washington, Oct. 3.-The official rial of the battleship Missouri will ake place on the 21st inst. Capt. Cowles, President Roosevelt's brotherMAIL POUCH THEFT.

It Is Said It Contained $500,000 in Ne gotiable Paper.

New York, Oct. 3.-Word was received Friday night that F. H. Crosby, alias A. E. Bell, alias Hammond, alias Crawford, had been arrested in Denver accused of stealing a mail pouch ontaining $500,000 worth of negotiaole bank paper at Philadelphia on the night of September 8. He is charged with several other crimes, including swindling and forgery. It is alleged that Crosby returned to this country from Crowe, Fig., last summer and went to Asbury Park, where he represented himself to be a fruit speculator. His wife mingled in good society and introduced her husband to prominent business men and at the bank there, where he made deposits, declaring to the officials that he intended to continue his account for the summer months.

On September 10, it is said, he deposited a number of checks payable o his order, drawn on different Philadelphia firms. Two days later he closed the accounts, withdrawing the amounts due him. He and his wife then left Asbury Park.

About this time, it is said, W. W. Dickson, chief post office inspector of Philadelphia, discovered the theft of a mail pouch containing bank remitances from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, he entire amounts being estimated at $500,000.

It is alleged that during the last ten days complaints were received at Asbury Park banks that checks accepted by them had been tampered with; that the names of the payees had been erased and Crosby's name inserted, and that small amounts had been raised to larger ones.

It was recalled that a mail pouch had been stolen at Springfield Junction, Ill., last April and that A. B. Hammond had opened a cash account at the Lincoln Trust Co., St. Louis, depositing a number of altered checks from the stolen mail pouch. It was suspected that the mail pouch robbery was committed by A. E. Bell, alias Crawford, whose photograph was dentified by the officials of the St. Louis bank.

Investigation at Asbury Park develped that Crosby was none other than 1. E. Hammond, alias Bell, alias Crawford. Post Office Inspector Jacobs raced him to Denver, where he was rrested Friday night.

Crosby is suspected of committing numerous post office robberies in New York, Buffalo and other cities.

THE MONOCACY SOLD.

A Japanese Merchant Purchased the Vessel For $11,225.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The navy department Friday received a cable disoatch from Rr. Adm. Robley D. Evans, commanding the Asiatic station, sayng that he had accepted the bid of Hashimoto, a Japanese merchant, for he purchase of the Monocacy. The purchase price was $11,225. The Monocacy is now at Taku, China. She went to China soon after the close of he civil war and was present at the pattle of Taku, in command of Comnander F. M. Wise. Under instrucions from Rr. Adm. Kempff, who was n command of the American ships at Taku the Monocacy did not participate in this fight. The Monocacy has had a somewhat checkered career. She is a schoonerrigged, sidewheel steamer, and was built in Baltimore in 1863. She outlived her usefulness many years ago, after arriving on the Chinese coast, and for several years has been lying in a mud dock in the Pei Ho. Adm. Evans was instructed to sell her without regard to the appraisement, which was only $8,000.

FIRE ESCAPE LAW.

They Assemble at West Point, Ky., For the Maneuvers.

They Number About 9,000 and Will Play Mimic War In Conection With Several Regiments of the Regular Army.

Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct. 2.—The organized militia of six states poured in on Camp Young by the thousands Thursday and by night the greater portion of the 9,000 or more troops had arrived, although only about half of them had established permanent camp by nightfall. For the regular troops already in camp the day was rather a quiet one. The infantry put in a hard but uneventful stretch of work at digging intrenchments. The cavalry brigade spent the morning polishing up for a brigade review, which took place in the after-

Twelve hundred men from the 1st, 3d and 20th infantries were set to work early in the day on a series of intrenchments with a front of about 1,700 feet. The time consumed and the quality of the work were appraised by Gen. Bates and the umpires. The principal object in throwing up the works, however, was that they might be used for the instruction of the officers of the state guard.

The review of the cavalry in the afternoon was attended by Gen. Bates, the umpires and nearly all the visiting officers, including Maj. Raspapoff and Col. Foster, the representatives of the Russian and British armies. The troops on review consisting of two squadrons of the 7th, a squadron of the 8th and two troops each of the 2d and 4th, made a decided impression on the foreign attaches. After they had passed in review the 7th was re-formed in line and to the accompaniment of music went through the first and second series of movements provided in the Butts manual for sabres.

Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct. 3.—The lateness of the arrival of portions of several of the militia regiments caused considerable modification of Friday's program after the troops had taken the field. Instead of spending the whole day in advance guard movements as intended at the start, it was decided to return after five Indiana battalions and the greater part of the Third brigade, composed of Michigan troops, has not been given a brief period of work, the Indiana troops, in extended order, and the Michigan infantry in close order. The officers of the state troops spent a portion of the afternoon inspecting intrenchments thrown up by the regular troops on Thursday. The engineer officers in charge of the work had provided specimens of all the light earthworks known to modern warfare. The commissary officers of the militia also had a period of instruction from ewo regular officers on "Methods of administration in the subsistence department." A lecture for all officers on "The subsistance of armies" was given Friday evening.

CONVENT BESIEGED.

A Number of Monks and Civilians Were Arrested.

Paris Oct. 3.-The convent of Amandepartment of Ille-et-Vilaine, strongly barricaded and defended, was besieged Friday by civil officers, assisted by gendarmes. A crowd of hundreds of people, headed by a former mayor, hissed the officers, threw stones at them and impeded their progress. One of the novel methods of defense consisted in a number of bee hives, which were placed at the entrance of the convent. The barricades were finally broken down and a number of monks and civilians were arrested.

At Castres-Sur-L'Agout, department of Tarn, a large seminary chapel and library were destroyed, which is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, as the flames were started simultaneously in five places. It was lay that the city hall in which his de. intended to reopen the seminary Sat-

Appointed Vali of Beirut.

Beirut, Oct. 2.-Ignoring the unanimous request of the consuls, the porte has appointed Khalia Pasha of Brussa vali of Beirut. It is feared that disorders will ensue on the departure of Nazim Bey, acting vali.

Jockey Skeets Martin Suspended. London, Oct. 2.-J. H. (Skeets) Martin, the American jockey, has been mand of the union Friday night and a suspended from riding from October 2 to October 9 by the stewards of the jockey club for attempting to anticipate the start in the race for the Hopeful stakes.

Gen. Orlando Smith Critically III. Chicago, Oct. 2. - Gen. Grlando Smith, vice president of the Baltimore cepted an invitation to attend the in- & Ohio Railroad Co., prior to the reternational law congress at the St. ceivership, is critically ill at his home live longer than two or three days.

A trifling technicality was the basis of the argument, and, after deciding upon a referee, each man stated his contention, relates the Chicago Post.

"I don't see the difference," said the referee. "You don't!" cried the argumentative ones.

"No, I don't."
"Well, now, see here." And each one very carefully stated his position again.
"Now do you see it?" they asked.

"No."

"Well, you are dull." But, nevertheless, each one went over the ground again.

"How about it now?" tney asked.

"I still fail to see it," was the reply.

"Do you ever expect to see it?" one of them asked, sarcastically.

"Not unless you put it in writing," he replied. "It's all a matter of words, and one can't see the spoken word."

Thereupon they stopped the argument long enough to throw the referee over the top of enough to throw the referee over the top of a building.

Pierpont, O., Oct. 5th.-Remarkable indeed is the experience of Mr. A. S. Turner, a. man now over seventy-one years of age, and whose home is here.

For many years this old gentleman hade suffered with a very unpleasant form of Kidney Trouble, a kind that very often bothers aged people. He would have to get up four or five times every night, and this very tiresome disease was fast wearing him At last after having almost made up his At last after having almost made up hismind that he would never be able to get relief, he stumbled over a medicine which relieved him almost immediately, and has cured him permanently. It is so very easy to get and so simple that Mr. Turner thinks everyone should know it. Every dealer in the country has it, and all you have to do is to ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Turner says:—

"I can heartily and honestly recommend. Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they cured me. Several others in the family have used them, too, and always with the best results. I think they have no equal."

Right Back! When off duty Prof. Richards, of Yale, enjoys a joke, and his pupils often come to him when they have heard a new one. He adds to the fun sometimes with a watticism adds to the fun sometimes with a wittleism of his own. Such was the case when one of the students perpetrated the following antiquity: "Professor, wouldn't you like a. good recipe for catching rabbits?" "Why yes," replied the professor. "What is it?" "Well, you crouch down behind a thick stone wall and make a noise like a turnip," answered the youth, giggling in ecstasy. Quick as a flash came the reply: "On, a better way than that would be for you togo and sit quietly in a bed of cabbage heads and look natural."—Chicago Chronicle.

A Good Thing. Every issue of The Four-Track News makes. it easier for ticket agents and ticket sellers to secure passengers for distant parts of the country, for the reason that every article and every illustration in The Four-Track News is an inducement for readers to travel and see what a marvelous variety of scenery and climate our own country possesses. The persons saved by the Sheboy gan say that with the crashing away of the upper works all persons aboard the Hackley ran on deck. Hasty preparations for a plunge into the water were begun, but before any plans could be carried out, the boat listed, urned over and went down like a rock. Search is still being made for any

SIR THOMAS LIPTON.

Next Friday.

New York, Oct. 5.-Sir Thomas Lipton arrived here from Chicago Sunday. He will remain here until Friday when he sails for home. While he has no present intention of building another challenger, he said that Shamrock III. would remain here to serve perhaps as a trial horse should the fortunate day ever come when he should feel justified in bringing over another challenger. There would be no use, he said, in doing so unless ho could find another Herreshoff on the other side.

RAINY DAYS.

I love the dark and stormy day-The lashing bough, the broken spray, The swirling and incessant rain, The pearled and dripping window-pane, The clouds so dense that one may know For hours and hours it shall be so.

Click, click upon the shining street Go seurrying horses' nimble feet, A lone pedestrian slantwise bent Against the drenching element. No bi d or fowl in tree or sky, Torn leaves in tumult drifting by, And rolling with a muffled swell A slowly tolling funeral bell.

Where now the throngs on pleasure bent, The eager step, the pressed intent? They must await the sunlight ray; Storm has no path for such as they. And fancy now her wand may wave: I see the rivulet round the grave And with the twilight comes the view Night closing in on Waterloo.

CHAPTER V. AN INTERRUPTION.

Only a little over a mile beyond where he had met Jane she would have to cross a creek. It was a mean stream with quicksand bottom, unfordable except at one place. This ford, partly made by nature and helped out by man, was marked on either side of the stream by a signpost that travelers might not miss it and get caught in the quicksand.

The night before some wild spirits among the Americans, learning that a band of Tories was likely to cross at that spot, and aslame with fury over the treatment Bessemer had given the Continentals at the battle of the 29th of May, painstakingly dug up the posts and placed them a little lower down. The scheme had worked so well that the first Tories who had attempted to cross were caught in the quicksand and one man and two horses were lost. In the confusion which followed the whole band had been well peppered with shot by the concealed Americans. The intention had been to move the posts back the next morning, but Godfrey knew this had not been done, and his heart misgave him when he thought of

The plot filled him with loathing, at once so wicked and so foolish was Such underhand doings were not his idea of warfare, yet it was these same wild spirits who had conceived it that he was trying to weld into a body of recruits.

hen the creek carriage was just entering the stream between the posts. With a shout of warning, he dashed forward. As he drew nearer, he saw that the offhorse was already beginning to sink, while the carriage lurched danger

Flinging himself from his horse, Worthington snatched Jane from the carriage and carried her to a place of safety. His next move was to rescue Aunt Rachel and Mammy Anne, while under his direction Gabriel began search for a piece of rope under the box-seat, where a supply of such things were usually kept in those days of bad roads and frequent breakdowns. Absalom had already cut the horses loose from the carriage, and by means of the lines was dragging the near-horse, which had sunk only a little way, back to firm ground. The off-horse was already nearly in to his belly, and the task of rescuing him was a serious one.

Slowly, doggedly, physical strength prevailed over nature's treachery, and gradually the horse was dragged, all bruised and bleeding and stunned with fright, to the ground.

"I don't understand," Jane said. "I am all in a daze. Here are the signposts, and yet this isn't the ford. The ford is there. How does it come that the posts have been moved?"

Worthington hung his head. "It was done last night, I believe," he answered unwillingly and falteringly, which was against him, "by somehoodlums to deceive a party of-Tories, who were coming this way."

"To deceive some Tories? By hoodlums? And what hoodlums, pray, would stoop to a thing so low but those who are your partisans-you, not too closely about the white doubtless, among them? Oh, shame, shame! To think that such atrocities could be- Capt. Worthington, I am obliged to you for the assistance you have rendered me and my party this morning, but I hope that this will be the last occasion upon which we shall meet. Never again do I wish to look upon the face of one who could lend himself to a trick so base. Absalom, mount Elam, who does not seem so much the worse for his experience, and ride back home as fast as you can for more horses. 'Tis useless to think of proceeding to my aunt's to-day. If we can but get back home in safety, we may consider ourselves most fortunate in these brutal times. Meanwhile, I will walk to Squire Henry's. 'Tis but a mile."

She started off, Aunt Rachel and for the exhausted horse, Worthington mounted his own and rode away, but not through the forest this time.

Turning suddenly to the right, he entered a ravine along whose rocky bottom ran a swift-flowing stream. Following this for a tedious distance, Bessemer to him. while his horse snorted and shook his head in frequent protest over the roughness of the way, he finally came within sight of a curl of blue smoke, and it was not long before he was able to see that the smoke arose from a camp-fire.

Scattered along the rocky base and edges of the ravine, at convenient proximity to the fire, were some 25 or 30 men, their horses tethered near. They were a sturdylooking set, some of them with fieres expressions, some wearing a devilmay-care air, but most of them with phlegmatic countenances that defied the observer, however keen, to read their thoughts. As a rule, they were unshaven and roughly dressed, most of them indoeskin trousers and homespun shirts. Their rifles were by their sides or slung across their backs. These were the men whom Godfrey had gathered together to help revenge Buford.

His was the only continental uniform among them, and he the only trained soldier, but every man in that company was a dead shot, an expert horseman, and an intrepid spirit. In fact, he had gathered one of those bands of mounted riflemen that were to make Sumter's fame and do so much for the preservation of South Carolina's liberty.

In the ashes of the fire were bakink sweet potatoes and hoe-cakes, and Worthington was just in time to partake of the noonday meal.

The next two months were monotonous ones for Jane, despite the return of her father and mother from Charleston and the week's visit which her brother made them. Arriving from England with his commission as a lieutenant in Lord Cornwallis' army, he was assigned by that general to Bessemer's command, and the latter graciously obtained for him a ten-days' furlough that he might visit his home, sending by him numerous messages to Jane.

The morning of the seventeenth of August, 1780, was hot and sultry. Jane's father had been carried out by Gabriel and Absalom, and placed summer-house. Jane sat beside him, reading aloud passages from his favorite Cicero. His two months' treatment under the famous Charleston doctor had done him but little good. The hands which lay upon the arms of his chair were as tremulous as leaves of the aspen-tree, while the veins stood in thick blue cords above the seared and yellow skin. The face, once beautifully white, was covered with brown blotches, and the silken gray curls hung with distressing thinness upon his shoulders.

Nevertheless, he made an exquisite picture in his flowered chair. His yellow silk-lined coat was thrown open, displaying the dainty whiteness of his ruffled shirt. His brown silk hose were drawn up without a wrinkle over his thin legs and met his brown knee-breeches under jewelbuckled garters. The great magnolia trees, one on either side of the summer-house, cast a luxurious shade, making the wearing of the threecornered hat which lay beside him unnecessary. The air was heavy with the rich odor of the ripened grapes in the vineyard to the left, while on the right the flower-garden was radiant with hollyhocks and larkspurs and marigolds, and great tubs of flowering oleander. The summerhouse itself was a mass of morning glories and passion-flowers.

Jane was not the least attractive bit of the pleasing picture, in her white frock with its puffed paniers, its elbow-sleeves, and its low-cut bodice modestly filled in with a lacetrimmed kerchief that was drawn throat. Into the peace and quiet of this scene broke the sound of many horses' feet. "What is it,, my daughter?" Mr. Ellery asked, grasping the arms of his chair with trembling hands. "Is it the rebels?"

"Nay, father," Jane answered, "methinks it is rather the British, to judge by the dashes of red I see among the trees; but I will go and find out."

She laid her book upon the table as she spoke, and, rising from her seat, left the summer-house and walked with light, quick step towards the mansion.

soldier son, of his courage, his devotion to duty, his popularity with his brother officers. Jane saw her father's dull eyes brighten, she saw the expression of patient suffering give way to one of interest, and the withered cheek lighten with a faint tinge of color.

Her heart went out to Bessemer that he should have given the older man those few minutes of pleasure, and when, with the excuse of not wishing to tire the invalid, he drew her from the summer-house, she walked with him along the garden paths and entered the green and purple labyrinth in the grape-arbor towards which he directed their steps.

She put up her hand and plucked ome grapes for him. He took them from her, and then, a quick glance around assuring him that the thick screen of vines hid them from view, he caught her hands in his and drew her to him. "Jane," he cried in the smothered voice of passion, "Jane, I love you!" The girl struggled to free herself but he held her close, while his hot kisses fell upon her brilliant hair and white brow. Presently, however, either she gave more force to her efforts or he feared to offend her past forgiveness, for he released her and dropped upon his knees before her.

"Sweetheart," he said, "forgive me my impetuosity. If I have been too forward, if I seem to have taken undue advantage of this one moment allotted me alone with you, then let the adoration which I feel speak in my behalf. The affection which I felt for you when a little girl in Philadelphia, though you touched my heart defense was begun Lord Coleridge then as none of your sex ere had before, was but the gentle warmth of a candle beside the noonday heat of my love for you now. Jane, may I me to adorn my home, to be tended with my most jealous care?"

"Col. Bessemer, 1"-Jane passed her hand across her forehead, as though to smooth away perplexity-"I scarce know what to say, so taken by surprise am I. May I-will you not grant me a respite-time for consideration of the great honor you have done me? There is the breakfast bell," she added hurriedly, and with very evident relief; "we must hasten or my stepmother will grow nervous."

Bessemer rose and, holding her bands in his, scanned her face with his keen eys. "Time for consideration? Ah, sweet one, if your heart were filled with love for me as mine of consideration. Tell me, Jane, do not your pulse beat responsive to my own? Does not some of the rapture which I feel awaken an answering glow in you? Surely it must be so. Then what need for waiting? for keeping me in cruel suspense? Nay, let thy sweet compassion plead for me. Take pity on this lonely soldier, and give him the boon of your requiting love. Let him feel that when he returns victorious to your side he will find this priceless treasure awaitbe so." He would have drawn her again within his arms, but Jane put "No. Col. Bessemer, I must have

"Ah, Mistress Jane, you must so weighty, I think it scarce unreason-friend of his childhood and boyhood hold your brother accountable for able to stipulate for due considerwas dead; the Jane who would once this intrusion. My heart so yearned ation."

She spoke with dignity and Acreness, and Bessemer, shrewl enough to know that such poise augured less well for him than girlish confusion would, felt the blood swirl hotly in his veins, while his eyes narrowed "My brother is ever considerate of with fuller determination to conquer where conquering was made difficult. His was not a nature to value highly most as beautiful as Jane had come lightly to his arms and been lightly cast aside. This girl would be hard to win, and won, would be won for always.

He bent his head and kissed her hands with appealing lips. "Ah beloved, my zealous heart hath again betrayed me into an eagerness that merits your rebuke. I would not have you think that I could refuse any request of yours, though it is one which means for me many weary moments of uncertainty, now anguished by doubt, now consumed by fire of hope. Sweet one, may I not pray that you will at least make the time of probation short? I am on Never had the British colenel appared to better advantage in Jane's Sumter. When that is accomplished, I shall return this way; then may I not claim my answer?" They had reached the entrance to the grape-arbor by now, and Jane's eyes viewed questioningly the prospect before her-the bright garden. the rear and side of the great old mansion, the sweep of the fruitful fields to the east, the clump of woods walling in the west. This was home -beautiful, luxurious, beloved home; and the man beside her asked her to leave it all for him. Surely much to ask; yet, with him close beside her; with his supplicating words in her ears; with his musical, persuasive voice; his forceful personality appealing to her, it would not have been hard to have turned and given him her hands in complete surrender. The fascination he had wielded when she was a school girl in Philadelphia was still potent; but she had learned coquetry, coyness, it might be judiciousness, since. She took her eyes from the landscape and brought them back to the Englishman.

"I cannot promise, Col. Bessemer," she said, "but if I can, I will have my answer ready-then." When the officers had eaten their fill they prepared with some haste for departure. Bessemer had little opportunity to do more than press Jane's hand ardently and whisper a word of love in her ear before he flung himself astride his gray.

JUDICIAL PROMPTNESS.

Dozing Habit of Famous English Justice Did Not Give Anybody an Advantage.

Lord Coleridge, lord chief justice of England from 1880 until 1894, has been described as England's greatest criminal judge. A writer in the Pall Mall Magazine says that in appearance he was the very embodiment of judicial dignity. - He was ever courteous and considerate, and never tried to win cheap applause at the expense of an inexpe rienced barrister or overwrought wit-

He had a curious habit, on the bench, of leaning back in his chair and closing his eyes, and this sometimes led the unwary to conclude that he was asleep.

On one occasion, during the trial of a prisoner for setting fire to a dwelling house, the counsel for the defense was much upset through his ignorance of the chief's habit. Throughout the day he had been trying to get before the jury the fact that a man other than the prisoner had openly threatened to burn down the particular house.

Each attempt to introduce testimony which the rules of evidence would not admit, was checked by a prompt objection, sustained by the court. But when the speech for the went off into his usual doze, and the counsel saw his opportunity.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said he, "let me come to another and most senot carry you back to England with rious point. We have heard from the witnesses that a certain Bill Smith had, prior to the fire, been dismissed by the prosecutor from his service. Now, gentlemen, I can tell you something--'

"But not about Mr. William Smith, I'm afraid," came from the bench, in gentle tones which conveyed no sense of irritation or annoyance.

The Simple Coast Folk.

The Newfoundland coast folk are "wreekers" as well as fishermen-not wreckers in the criminal sense, but expert workmen in stripping and unloading the hulls that are tossed up against the frowning cliffs. Every fisherman can turn his hand to this labor, which frequently pays better is for you, there would be no need than his regular vocation; and salvage schooners find permanent employment there with divers and hoists, recovering from the oozy depths the treasures of this submarine curiosity shop.

The Newfoundlander of the southern shore counts on "a few wrecks" every year to help him maintain his family.

"How will your people get along this winter?" asked the late Mgr. Power, Roman Catholic bishop of St, John's, of the Rev. Father Hennebury, ing him. Tell me, Jane, that it shall the priest at Trepassey, near Cape Race, who was dining with him.

"Very well, my lord," replied the padre, "with the help of God and a few wrecks."-McClure's.

THE ESTHETIC GIRL.

Thought the Postal Authorities Should Issue Hand-Painted Stamps.

The esthetic girl frowned as she took the letter a maid brought in, and after she had run over its contents and returned the sheets to their envelope her delicate brows contracted again. She looked fixedly at the envelope and marmured: "It really is time something was done about it."

"I hope you've had no bad news," ventured a sympathetic friend, relates the Brooklyn Eagle.

"No; I was just reminded of something. Do you remember that dreadful bazaar fire in Paris, some years ago? I happened to be in the city at the time. The bodies of the victims were carried to the Champs de Mars the morning after the fire. As I stood in the immense crowd outside, watching the relatives and friends enter to identify the victims, two elaborately dressed women went in past the guarded entrance. One of them wore a bright red hat and lifted her skirt unnecessarily high over a scarlet silk petticoat. 'Hem!' ironically ejaculated a brawny peasant woman at my elbow, 'Mais voila des toilettes pour visiter les morts!"" "They certainly weren't appropriate toilets to visit the dead in," assented the sympathetic friend, "but is there any connection between the fact and that letter of yours?"

The esthetic girl rearranged the folds of her tobacco brown gown, which exactly matched her hair, and adjusted the string of amber beads about her neck before she replied:

"Well, this letter is just as absurd in its way as that woman in a red hat at the scene of mourning. Doesn't it jar on your artistic sense to see that broad black-banded envelope with a bright red stamp in one corner? It's an insult to the esthetic taste of the nation for the government to force us to such atrocities."

"Now, what I would suggest is that the postal authorities should issue mourning stamps. They might be of appropriate design, urns and weeping willows and that sort of thing, or even those everlasting old fathers of the country done in black would be some improvement.

"Do you know I've given up using mauve stationery because it was so expensive. Doesn't cost more than other colors. No, but the stamps do. Of course, I couldn't dream of putting a horrid red stamp on a heliotrope envelope, so I had to buy three-cent stamps. They maked beautifully.

"Think what a joy it would be if, instead of buying those odious little red oblongs, one could get postage stamps in assorted colors, beautifully tinted. The idea opens out limitless possibilities, too, in the way of suitable designs for different occasions. There might even be expensive hand-painted stamps for aristocrats who dislike to use what the common herd does. And the lover should be able to send the beloved object letters stamped with hearts and cupids."

The sympathetic friend thought the scheme "just lovely," and the esthetic girl went on rapturously:

"Don't you believe we women could start a petition (that seems to be the way they do things nowadays) and send it to the president! We'd call it the modern stamp act; nothing to do with stupid tea as in the old days, but purely for art's sake. You know the stamps could be made an art education for the masses. I declare I'll agitate the matter at the next meeting of the A. A.'s-Artistic Advancement Club."

KISSING CHILDREN.

Something Parents Should Discountenance Even Among Their Most Intimate Friends.

The published statement of the celebrated scientist, Dr. Fere, on the neuropathic dangers which may lie in a kiss has created wide and deep interest. Dr. Fere observes that some chil dren manifest a strong, even violent objection to being kissed by certain people whom they otherwise love and revere, says a Paris report.

He mentions the case of a young woman who loves and adores her mother, yet from childhood resented being kissed by her, and this feeling has only grown stronger with the years, the lady in question being now 34 years of age. There are other cases where a kiss forced upon resenting children has had terrible results, terminating in lifelong illness or serious mental disturb-

In the light of these observations Dr. Fere says parents should cease compelling their children to kiss or to receive kisses where they show an earnest, not merely whimsical, objection.

For instance, a girl of 12 years, who always objects to kisses, was one day suddenly taken up by a relative and kissed. The girl turned white as chalk, shrieked loudly, fell back in a swoon, then was shaken by terrible convulsions and again swooned for about half an hour. These attacks returned every fortnight. They have now disappeared. but the girl is still subject to frequent swooning.

Victory.

Let us wipe our tears, lift up our heads and give ourselves to brave and cheerful toil. In due time the release will come; rest so sweet after the toil is over; glory so bright after the darkness is passed; victory so grand that we shall not wish the conflicts to have been less fierce, or the perils of the day less numerous or painful.-Detroit Post.

ALLIGATOR IN QUEER HAUNT.

Curiously-Shaped Reptile Caught in Missouri Mud Pond Puzzles State Naturalists.

A three-foot alligator found in a mud pond, near the Wabash railroad tracks. in Columbia, Mo., a few days ago is puzzling the zoological associates of Missouri university. The alligator was discovered by Fred Dawson, of Columbia, in a small pond formed by recent rains. The reptile reared its head near the bank and Dawson shot it with a revolver. He secured the specimen and gave it to the zoological laboratory of the Missouri university.

The story was not believed at first, as it was thought that an alligator could not have survived the climate of so northern a region as Missouri, but when the curiosity was exhibited at the state university all doubts were removed. It has been found that the reptile is of abnormal anatomy, it has strangely developed vertebrae, entirely too large and out of proportion with the fleshy parts of the body, and is deformed in other ways, though to all outward appearances it does not differ from other reptiles of the kind. There is no doubt as to the species, but the reptile is so peculiarly formed that the university authorities are of opinion that they have a rare curiosity of unusual scientific importance. A number of offers have been received from curiosity seekers, but the specimen will be retained as the property of the university.

GIRL HAS ROMANTIC CAREER.

Missouri Maid Marites a Negro, Goes to the Madhouse. Then Becomes a Belle.

The story of Miss Mary Gordon is one of the most romantic that has ever come to light, and it is probable that no other school girl in this country has had so many vicissitudes as this talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Liston Gordon, of Chillicothe, Mo.

It is not 30 months since Mary was the wife of a negro and was flying over Kansas, Missouri and Iowa with him, trying to escape from her father, declaring that she would never forsake her black husband; that she loved him, and that she herself had negro blood in her

It is not 30 months since Marry was arrested and declared insane and sent to an asylum as the result of her strange infatuation for her negro husband. From the madhouse she went to a St. Louis academy, and from there she has graduated, to return to her home in Chillicothe and to become one of the belles of the northern Missouri town.

Now she has forgotten her negro husband and her mind is a complete blank prior to the time she was pronounced cured at the asylum.

Frog skin was grafted around her eye, where the flesh is most sensitive, and the process was attended with great danger.

The flesh about the eye had become bruised and the skin became affected. Both to save the eyesight and to prevent the socket from having a bald, hideous appearance the graft had to be made. Frog skin was used because no human skin was available. Grafts from the white skin of a frog were taken and ap-

The Great Kentucky Futurity and The Transylvania.

There are no two trotting events that much enthusiasm, bring together so many great horses, or that owners desire so much to win, as Kentucky's Oct. 5. Account Horse Show.

—Henry Tavebaugh, formerly of Clintonville, after a two weeks' visit to relatives here, left on Saturday for his home of Sedalia. create so much speculation, arouse so fair. Wolf Teeth in Horses. Many people imagine that wolf teeth.

as they are called, by some mysterious means, reach up to the eye and affect it in some manner, and many other ridiculous fancies. They are merely superfluous teeth. The idea that they are injurious has become so firmly engrafted in the public mind that it is almost impossible to eradicate it. In the great majority of cases horses affected suffer from recurrent opthalmia, the teeth having nothing to do with the causation of same. I never argue with people about wolf teeth, but pull them as I am requested. You will feel better satisfied if the wolf teeth are pulled, so it would be better to have a veterinary remove them. -C. Objected to Colored Pupils.

A dispatch in the Cincinnati Enquirer, of Saturday, from Arkansas City, Kansas, says: Miss Georgia Grimes, of of the Arkansas City School Board for a teacher and was employed. She came here, accompanied by her father, J. B. Grimes, to take up her work, and was given her choice of three vacancies.

In each of the three rooms Miss Grimes found two or more negro pupils. This was more than her Kentucky blood could stand, and she demanded that negroes be barred from her room. The School Board told her that under the Kansas law this was impossible, whereupon Miss Grimes and her father packed up and returned to Kentucky.

"It would ruin me socially in Kentucky," said Mr. Grimes, "if it were known that my daughter was teaching niggers' out here in Kansas."

CIVIC LEAGUE -The members of the CIVIC LEAGUE —The members of the Paris Literary Club desire every lady in Paris to join them in forming a Civic League Club and to meet at the home of Miss Winnie Williams, on Wednesday afternoon, October 7th, at 2:30 o'clock.
